

The 2008 Pfizer Trainee-of-the-Year Award

This award is open to all pig unit personnel in the United Kingdom who can demonstrate they are embracing training opportunities to further their career and improve performance on their pig unit. Neither age nor experience (or lack of it) are barriers to winning. The judges will be looking for people who are using training to forge a rewarding professional career in a professional industry. This year's winner will receive prizes worth over £2,500, including an engraved trophy, a cash prize, a tailor-made training programme of his or her choice, and a day and night in London to attend a high-profile presentation ceremony in Whitehall. Newcomers have as good a chance of winning as more experienced employees.

IN ASSOCIATION WITH PIGWORLD

Remember — the award is not about writing reams of information for the judges. All they want from entrants are a (very) few words. Everything else will be done at interview. The judges are experienced, practical pig industry people. THEY ARE ON YOUR SIDE!
